

Key Findings from IDA's Infocomm Manpower Survey 2002

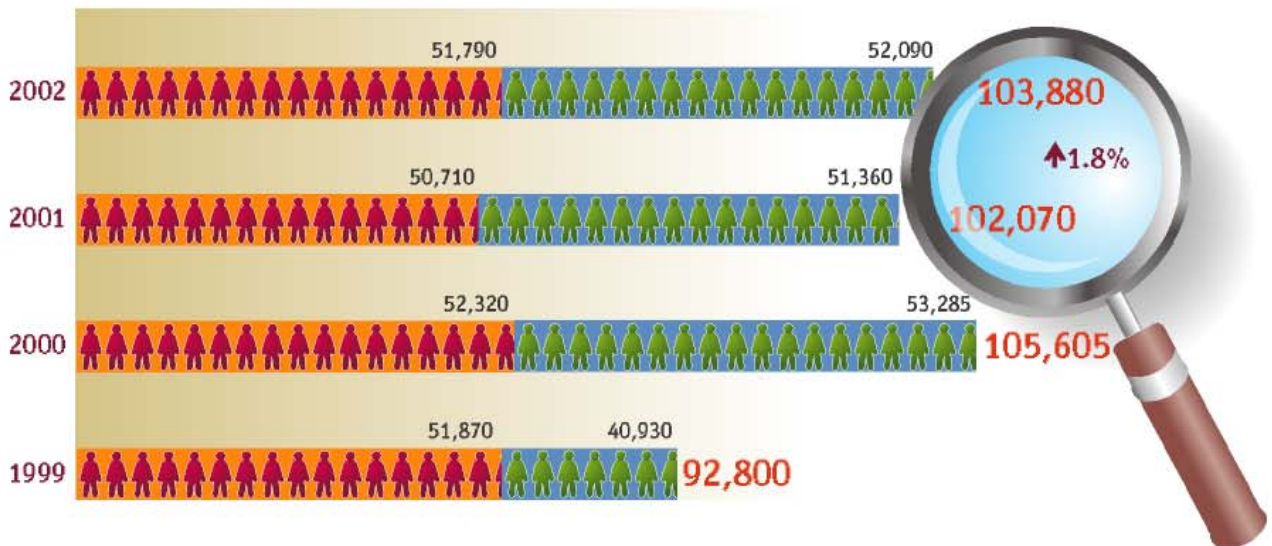

The typical infocomm professional in 2002 was a male who had a tertiary education and was below 40 years old.

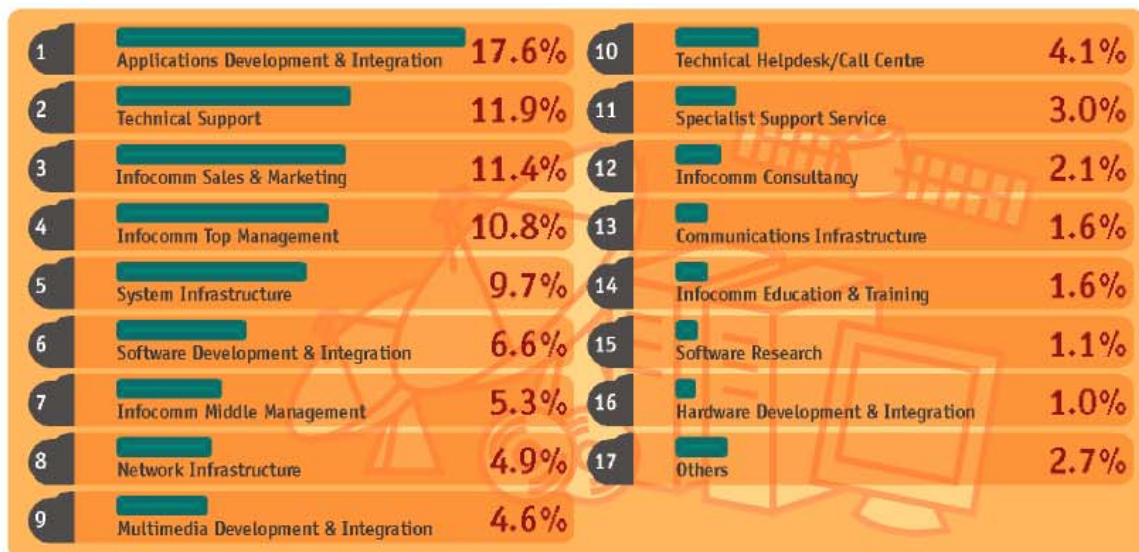

#1: Number of Infocomm Manpower in Employment for 1999 - 2002

Pool of Manpower Recorded 1.8% Growth for 2002

Infocomm Industry Organizations
End-User Organizations

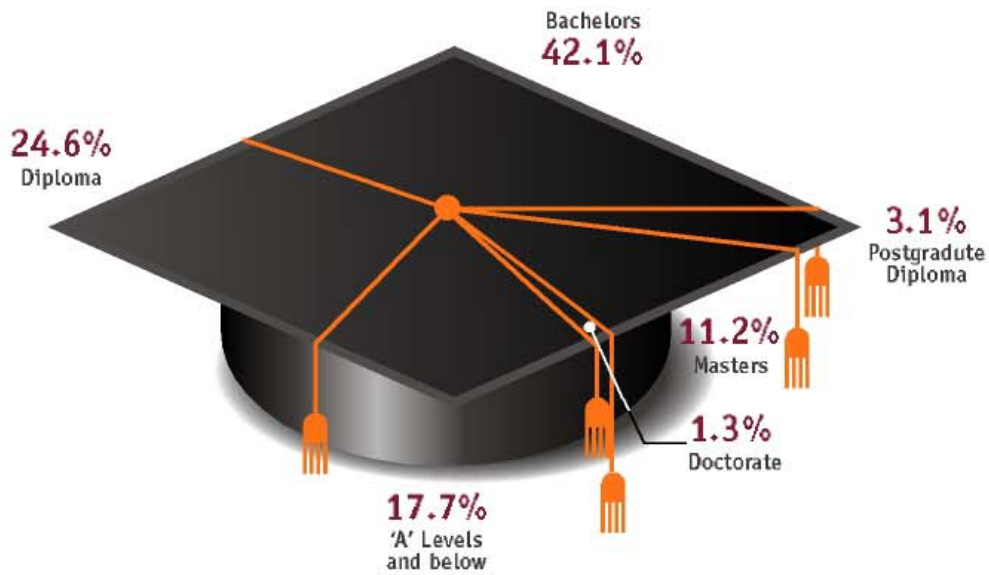

#2: Distribution of Infocomm Manpower Across Occupational Categories

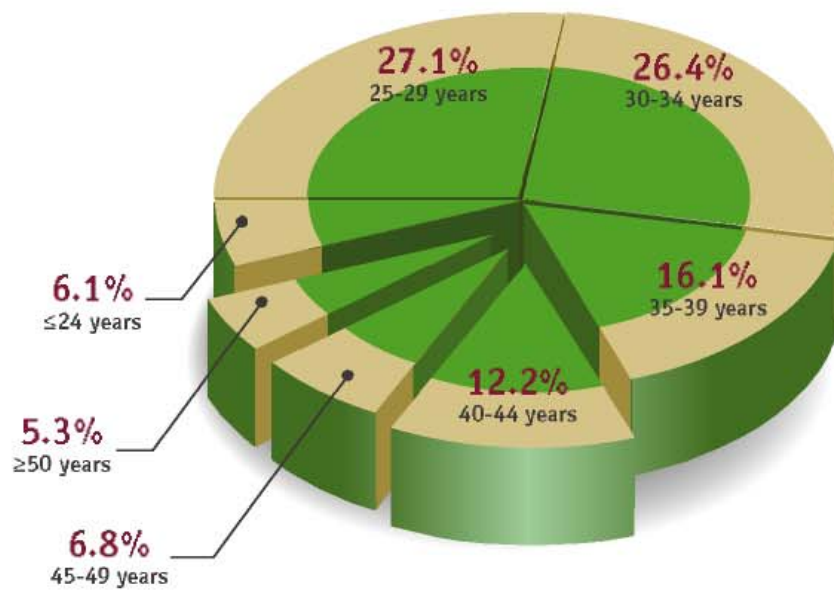

#3: Profile of Infocomm Manpower by Highest Qualifications Achieved

Eight out of Ten had Tertiary Education

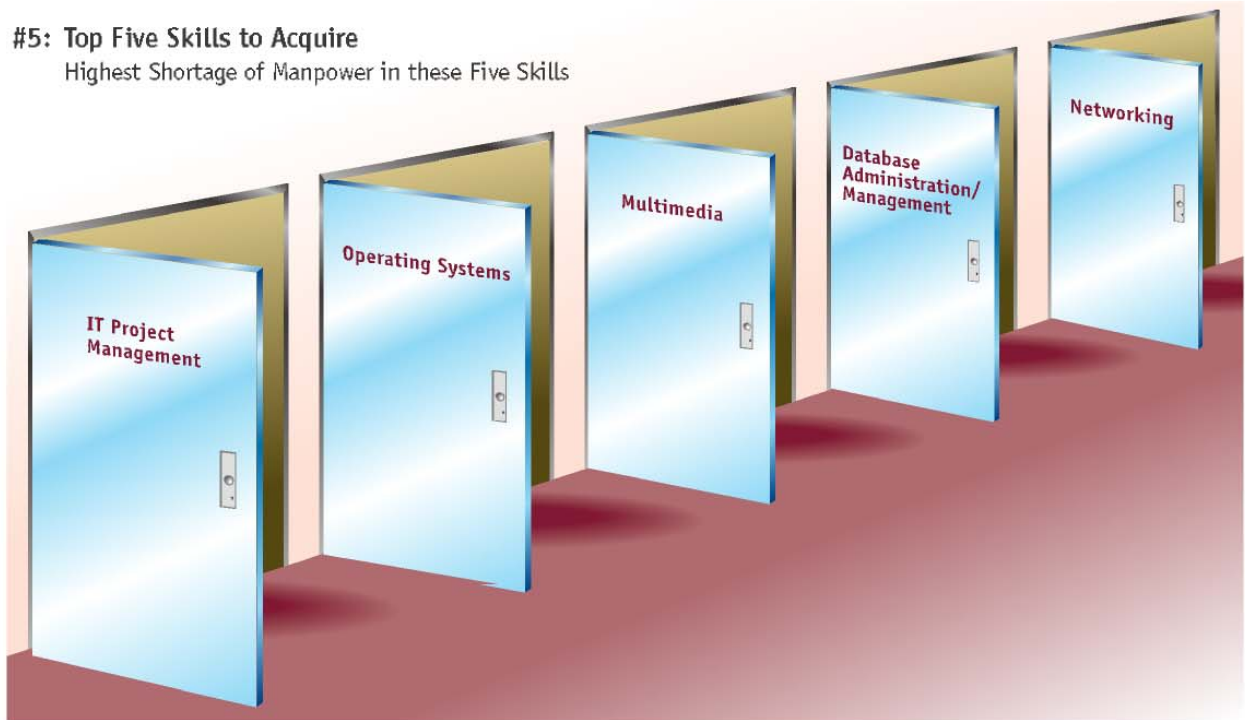

#4: Profile of Infocomm Manpower by Age

Under 40s dominated the pool of manpower

#5: Top Five Skills to Acquire

Highest Shortage of Manpower in these Five Skills

#6: Projected Demand for Infocomm Manpower

Pool of manpower expected to rise marginally at 0.2% and 1.2% for 2003 & 2004

